

It's time...

You can say 'It's time (for somebody) to do something':

- € It's time to go home. / It's time for us to go home.

You can also say:

- € It's late. It's time we went home.

Here we use the past (went) but the meaning is present or future, not past:

- € It's 10 o'clock and he's still in bed. It's time he got up. (not 'It's time he gets up')

It's time you did something = 'you should have done it already or started it'. We often use this structure to criticise or to complain:

- € It's time the children were in bed. It's long after their bedtime.
- € The windows are very dirty. I think it's time we cleaned them.

You can also say: It's about time... / It's high time... This makes the criticism stronger:

- € Jack is a great talker. But it's about time he did something instead of just talking.
- € You're very selfish. It's high time you realised that you're not the most important person in the world.
