

Subject or object

Explanations

- Subject or object
Relative clauses give extra information about a noun in the main clause. Relative clauses begin with a relative pronoun (who, which, that, whom, whose). The relative pronoun can be the subject of the clause:

That's the woman who bought my car.

The woman (subject) bought my car (object).

Or the object of the clause:

That's the car that I used to own.

I (subject) used to own the car (object).

- Combining sentences

Note how sentences are combined.

Subject: This is Jean. She bought my car.

Jean is the person who bought my car.

She is not repeated, as the person is the subject.

Object: That is Jean's car. I used to own it.

That's the car that I used to own.

It is not repeated, as the car is the object.

Defining or non-defining

- Defining
Defining clauses give important information which tells us exactly what is being referred to.
That book which you lent me is really good.
This indicates which book we are talking about. Without the relative clause, it might be difficult to understand the meaning.
- Non-defining
Non-defining clauses add extra information. They are separated by commas in writing, and by a pause on either side (where the commas are) in speaking.
The book, which I hadn't read, was still on the shelf.
This gives extra information about the book. We could miss out the relative clause and the meaning would still be clear.

Omitting the relative pronoun

- Defining relative clauses
In a defining relative clause we can leave out the relative pronoun if it is the object of the clause.
That's the car (that) I used to own.
We cannot miss out the relative pronoun if it is the subject of the clause.
That's the woman who bought my car.
- Non-defining relative clauses
In a non-defining relative clause we cannot leave out the relative pronoun.

Which, who and that

- That instead of which
When we talk about things, that is often used instead of which. This is very common in speech.

Is this the house that you bought?

- That instead of who
When we talk about people, that can be used instead of who. This is less common, but we still do it, especially in speech.

Have you met the boy that Sue is going to marry?

- Which in non-defining clauses

That cannot be used to introduce a non-defining clause.

The hotel, which was a hundred years old, was very comfortable.

- Prepositions

That cannot be used after a preposition.

This is the car (that/which) I paid £2000 for. (speech)

This is the car for which I paid £2000. (formal)

Whom and whose

- Whom is the object form of who. It has to be used after prepositions. Its use is formal and quite rare.

This is the person (who) I sold my car to. (speech)

This is the person to whom I sold my car. (formal)

- Whose means of whom, and usually refers to people.

This is Jack. His sister is staying with us.

This is Jack, whose sister is staying with us.

Practice

1 Underline any relative pronouns that can be left out in these sentences.

- I think that my boss is the person who I admire most.
- Harry, who was tired, went to bed very early.
- We're taking the train that leaves at 6.00.
- Have you seen the book that I left here on the desk?
- The film which we liked most was the French one.
- My radio, which isn't very old, has suddenly stopped working.
- The clothes which you left behind are at the reception desk.
- The couple who met me at the station took me out to dinner.
- Last week I ran into an old friend who I hadn't seen for ages.
- Don't cook the meat that I put in the freezer - it's for the dog.

2 Replace the relative pronouns in italics with that, where possible.

- This is the magazine which I told you about.
This is the magazine that I told you about.
- John's flat, which is in the same block as mine, is much larger.
- The girl whose bag I offered to carry turned out to be an old friend.
- The policeman who arrested her had recognised her car.
- I work with someone who knows you.
- We don't sell goods which have been damaged.
- Brighton, which is on the south coast, is a popular holiday resort.
- I don't know anyone whose clothes would fit you.
- There's a café near here which serves very good meals.
- People who park outside get given parking tickets.

3 Underline the most suitable word in each sentence.

- My friend Jack, that/who/whose parents live in Glasgow, invited me to spend Christmas in Scotland.
- Here's the computer program that/whom/whose I told you about.
- I don't believe the story that/who/whom she told us.
- Peter comes from Witney, that/who/which is near Oxford.
- This is the gun with that/whom/which the murder was committed.
- Have you received the parcel whom/whose/which we sent you?
- Is this the person who/which/whose you asked me about?
- That's the girl that/who/whose brother sits next to me at school.
- The meal, that/which/whose wasn't very tasty, was quite expensive.
- We didn't enjoy the play that/who/whose we went to see.

4 Put a suitable relative pronoun in each space, or leave the space blank where possible.

- My bike, which I had left at the gate, had disappeared.
- The shoes I bought were the ones I tried on first.
- The bag in the robbers put the money was found later.
- The medicine the doctor gave me had no effect at all.
- Peter, couldn't see the screen, decided to change his seat.
- I really liked that tea you made me this morning.
- What was the name of your friend tent we borrowed?
- The flight Joe was leaving on was cancelled.
